The data for the analysis were provided by the authors. It is the output of their simulations. However, the code used to generate those data is included in the replication folder.